DIC Board of Director Appointed Chairman of the Japan Printing Ink Makers Association

Tokyo, Japan—DIC Corporation announced that board of director Yoshihisa Kawamura, also serves as chairman of DIC Graphics Corporation—the principal company in the DIC Group’s printing inks business in Japan—has been appointed chairman of the Japan Printing Inks Makers Association (JPIMA). The appointment was announced at the association’s 70th annual general meeting on May 26, 2017. JPIMA is an industrial organization that works to contribute to the sound development of the printing inks and varnish industries by conducting management-, technology- and demand-related research and necessary operations, as well as to promote favorable relations among its various members.

With the aim of supporting the advancement of the printing inks and related industries, which manufacture products that play an important role in people’s lives, DIC Graphics will continue working to reinforce its relationship with JPIMA. The company will also step up efforts to develop environment-friendly products that ensure safety and peace of mind with the aim of contributing to the realization of a sustainable society.
